

Bronze Fawn

Written by Fense

Saturday, 31 March 2007

Bronze Fawn was an unexpected discovery, opening for Talkdemonic a few months ago here in Seattle. I then stumbled upon them at an Atlas Clothing performance, where they headlined a show. On stage, the group pieces together a vast array of influences with a rewarding outcome; the audience is left in a hypnotic, meditative state.

Consisting of 4 members, Bronze Fawn blends post-rock instrumentalism with shoegaze and electronica for audibly stunning experience. Yet the group also has an impressive visual side. A fifth member mixes and loops video to their live performances, projecting the results onto a screen behind the performance.

Photo by Michelle Nolan.

Bronze Fawn \(Homepage\)

Bronze Fawn \(MySpace\)